

AMERICAN SUBMARINES SINK 14 MORE JAP VESSELS, SECRETARY KNOX REPORTS AT HIS NEWS CONFERENCE

Latest Forays By U. S. Subs Sent One Large Tanker, Medium Cargo Transport, One Small Cargo Vessel and 11 Medium Cargo Ships to the Bottom

By International News Service
WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announced today that American submarines roaming the vast waters of the Pacific and the Far East, have sunk 14 more Japanese vessels.

In a communique released at his news conference, Knox disclosed that the latest forays by U. S. subs sent to the bottom one large Japanese tanker, one medium cargo transport, one small cargo vessel and 11 medium cargo ships.

Praising operations of the undersea fleet, Knox said:

"I would like to say that American submarines are doing an increasingly skillful job against the Japanese."

The latest successes brought the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged by Yankee subs to 611, including 461 Japanese ships, 36 probably sunk and 114 damaged. The Secretary said the Japanese to date have lost well over three million tons of merchant shipping at the hands of American Army and Navy fighting forces.

The Secretary added that in comparison to the damage inflicted on the Japs, American submarine losses were "amazingly small."

To date the United States Navy has reported lost only 18 submarines from all causes since the outbreak of the war.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Discussing the question, "What can we do to increase interest and activities in our Grange?" at the meeting of Keller's Church Grange, this week, Theodore Lewis pointed out that the discussions must be of interest to the farmers.

It is at meetings of the Grange, said Lewis, that farmers can consider problems which are of particular interest to them. During this period, it was pointed out, the farmers are confronted with more problems, and these should be discussed at the meeting of the Grange. Planning for future activities of the organization were also advocated by the speaker.

In reference to a decreased attendance at the meetings, Mr. Lewis said the lack of transportation facilities has prevented many members from attending.

Following this discussion, a song guessing contest was conducted by Miss Eleanor Frei and Mrs. Ellis Johnson.

The meeting opened with the singing of "It's a Good Thing to Be a Granger" and closed with the singing of "Lord, Dismiss Us With Thy Blessing."

Three men taken to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital and two automobiles smashed, undoubtedly under repair, resulted Thursday morning from the attempt of Vernon M. Swartley, 17, Keller's Church, to make a left turn off N. Main street, Doylestown, at the intersection of that street with Church street, in front of the car of Harry Litts, 31, East Stroudsburg, R. D. 1. The third person in the smash-up was Marvin Hendricks, 18, Perkassie, R. D. 4, a passenger in Swartley's car.

Passing motorists took Swartley and Hendricks to the Emergency Hospital, suffering apparently from multiple contusions and bruises. They were held at the hospital for treatment and further examination. Later, Litts was taken to the hospital for treatment of cuts of the left ear and head bruises and then discharged.

Swartley, driving south on N. Main street, made the left turn in order to enter Lacey avenue. He stated that he did not see the car driven by Litts, coming north on N. Main street, and did not know there was any car near him until the collision occurred. Litts explained that he had no warning that Swartley was going to make the turn and that it was impossible for him to stop in time to prevent hitting the Swartley car. Neither driver made any charges of excessive speed by the other and no arrests were made by the police.

Nazis Hurdled Back South of Rome

Algiers.—Fifth Army troops, after throwing back one small German attack southwest of Carrocco, improved their positions in the beachhead area below Rome today.

Sixty miles to the south, in the Cassino sector, Nazi troops made a slight penetration into mountain positions northwest of that stubbornly defended town, but later were hurled back, while Eighth Army forces near the Adriatic advanced slightly to occupy a strategic ridge. Artillery duels and patrol activity continued on all the Italian fronts, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's headquarters announced.

The Mediterranean air force carried out 690 sorties in support of ground operations, and pounded three German-held airbases in the Rome area. There was not a single German plane over the Anzio beachhead.

ILL CADET NURSE IS GIVEN CAP IN BED

Miss Rita Dugan Has Special Ceremony After Rites For 48 Others

AT TRENTON HOSPITAL

When illness prevented Cadet Rita Dugan, of 250 Buckley street, from taking part in capping exercises for the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps conducted by St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing, Trenton, N. J., on Sunday evening, she received her cap in bed.

The rites for a class of 45 cadet nurses and four other students, took place in the hospital chapel, and immediately thereafter Sister M. Herman Joseph, directress of nurses, and Sister M. Clara Agnes, a member of the faculty, accompanied by nurses and students, went to Miss Dugan's room on an upper floor, and there brief rites took place.

Miss Dugan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dugan, was feeling well enough to sit up in bed, and as she clasped a lighted candle in her hands, she recited the Florence Nightingale pledge, and received her cap from Sister Herman Joseph.

Among witnesses at the ceremony were Miss Dugan's mother and sister, Mrs. Wayne Swoyer. Forty-five of the class of 49 are enrolled in the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, the program being made possible by an act of Congress to provide professional nurse training without cost to students. They promise to engage in essential nursing throughout the war, either civilian or military service, and they are paid while they learn.

Well-Known Tenor Gives Delightful Concert Here

Bristol Concert Company members had an enjoyable evening of music last night, when William Horne, tenor, presented a program of merit in St. James' parish house, Walnut street.

Mr. Horne, described by Toscanini as a tenor "with rhythm," presented solos in five groups, and his pianist, William Schatzkauer, delighted with three solo selections from Chopin.

The vocal presentations scheduled on Mr. Horne's program included the following: "Where'er You Walk" (Handel), "Non Posso Disperare" (S. deluca), "H With All Your Hearts" (Mendelssohn-Bartholdy), four songs by Schubert; Flower Song from "Carmen" (Bizet), aria "E lucevan le Stelle" (Puccini), Airade from "Le Roi d'Ys" (Lalo), "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal" (Quilter), "The Spring Flower" (Tipton), "Summer Time from "Porgy and Bess" (Gershwin), and "Daybreak" (McDonald).

The artist also gave several encores.

Mr. Horne was the winner of the Charles H. Woods three-year scholarship at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, Md., this carrying with it a traveling fellowship which was spent in Europe. He also received a scholarship at the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia. During his service in the U. S. Army, he was chosen by Irving Berlin for a leading role in the Broadway run of "This Is The Army."

The third and final concert of this winter's series will follow in a few weeks, presenting Helen Howe in her original character sketches.

JUSTIFIABLE PRIDE

The people of this area, together with their millions of fellow Americans who contribute to the 1944 Red Cross War Fund, can take justifiable pride in the efficient manner the Red Cross is performing its unprecedented war job.

With U. S. troops scattered all over the world, the Red Cross operates on a global scale. Keeping pace with the gigantic expansion of the Army and Navy is a task of no small magnitude, yet from all reports the Red Cross is meeting and discharging its wartime responsibilities with credit to itself and great benefit to the armed forces.

Red Cross field directors live with the troops and move with them when they go into battle. They brave enemy fire to bring Red Cross services right up to the front lines. In the tented evacuation hospitals where the wounded are first brought, cheerful Red Cross girls serve cigarettes, soap, towels, razor and other personal things a soldier is likely to leave behind on a battlefield. Moreover, they write letters for bed-ridden patients to relieve the anxiety of the home folks. Red Cross clubs in leave areas, usually in the big cities, surround the soldier with home comforts and an American atmosphere, and thereby keep him off the streets. Nor are the boys in the mudholes neglected; no matter how remote their outposts, clubmobiles operated by Red Cross "doughgirls" bring them doughnuts and coffee, as well as movies, phonograph music, magazines and newspapers. Armen to and from bombing missions receive particular attention.

Inevitably there are hardships connected with this type of service, yet Red Cross people in the field work 12 to 18 hours without complaint. They get real satisfaction out of serving the troops. And the Army from General Eisenhower down to the humblest G. I. are full of gratitude to the Red Cross and to the folks back home whose contributions make these services possible.

VICTORY OVER TYPHUS

Col. Stanhope Bayne Jones, chairman of the United States Typhus Commission, has reported that no deaths due to louse borne typhus have been reported among the American armed forces so far in this war. And yet American troops have been exposed to outbreaks of the disease in Egypt, North Africa, in Italy and in other places.

The successful fight waged against the disease by the Army medical men and the commission is good news for Americans as typhus fever has long been a peril to armies in the field. The disease, known for centuries in epidemic form in all countries of Europe, has been given many other names, such as pestilential, putrid, jail and hospital fever.

The American Army combats the disease with a vaccine and de-lousing powders. A vaccine developed by Dr. Harold R. Cox of the United States Public Health Service is injected into every American soldier sent to typhus zones. The results of the vaccine speak for themselves.

Bennemans Celebrate 25th Anniversary of Wedding

CROYDON, Feb. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. George Benneman, Walnut avenue, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding on Saturday. A mass of thanksgiving was celebrated at nine o'clock at the church of St. Thomas Aquinas, with the Rev. Joseph Caffrey officiating. Present in the sanctuary was the Rev. Fr. Hoeger, C. S. S. P., Holy Ghost Missionary College, Cornwells Heights, who presented the celebrants with prayer books and a spiritual bouquet from the students of the college.

Soloist at the mass was Mrs. James Jackson, who rendered "Ave Maria," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and hymn to the "Sacred Heart." Miss Elizabeth Tryon was the organist.

Immediately following the mass, breakfast was served to the guests at the Benneman home, which was gaily decorated for the occasion in white streamers and wedding bells. A luncheon was served in the evening to 100 guests.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Price, Miss Rose Rebstock, Ulrich Sontheimer, Mrs. Minnie Brady, Charles Benneman and sons, Joseph and Vincent, Philadelphia. A group of Catholic Daughters of America, Bristol, were present at the mass, and at the gathering in the evening, as well as a group of the Junior Catholic Daughters, of which Mrs. Benneman is chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Benneman received many gifts.

The Bennemans have four children, Mrs. Edward Adams, Miss Anna Benneman and Raymond and Edward. They have been residents of Croydon for the past 17 years, having moved here from Philadelphia.

Bristol Presbyterian Church

O God, our Father, Thou Who art the source of all power and strength, we pray Thy blessing upon us as we are faced with situations which demand of us great strength and courage. We pray that we will be enabled by Thy Spirit to overcome the natural tendency toward greed and possessiveness. We pray that we will be enabled by Thy Spirit to overcome the hatred which is naturally inspired within our hearts for those who are our enemies. Grant, O Father, that we might be Christian in our thinking and in our planning for the future, that a peace might be built which will conform to Thy Will. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

GRAND THEATRE

Giving the versatile Pat O'Brien one of his finest roles, "The Iron Major" stars in the life of the late Major Frank Cavanaugh, one of the nation's foremost gridiron mentors.

Cavanaugh's action in enlisting in the Army during World War I, despite his age and his family responsibilities, because of his conviction that a man should fight for what he thought right, carries an inspiring message to every American today.

Beginning in Worcester, Massachusetts, in 1891, the film depicts "Cav's" boyhood, his early interest in football, his struggles to earn his way through Dartmouth—for his parents intended him to become a lawyer. But the death of the elder Cavanaugh while the boy is still an undergraduate forces him to quit school and go to work.

BRISTOL THEATRE

That merry, mad and mischievous comedy, "What a Woman!" now playing at the Bristol Theatre, closes its hilarious run today. Directed by Irving Cummings, "What a Woman!" once more brings Rosalind Russell and Brian Aherne to their fans.

Luana Walters, Robert Kellard's leading lady in the Republic picture, "Drums of Fu Manchu," showing at the Bristol Theatre, had the feminine lead in 15 westerns before being elevated to feature stardom.

RITZ THEATRE

Ward Bond co-starred with lovely Dorothy Tree in Ben Judell's production, "Hitler—Dead or Alive," now showing at the Ritz Theatre, says he never enjoyed working in a picture as much in all his life as he did working in this one. The reason—he does two things he has long wanted to do—he shaves Adolf Hitler's thick mustache off, and takes the same blood-thirsty Nazi leader by the throat and shakes him until he squeals. "The West Side Kid" is also appearing at the Ritz Theatre.

The smartest suit in the world right now—to be worn every season from now till victory with a proud look in your eye and a glad feeling in your heart. Your WAC uniform tells people you're in the Army, working—not just wishing—for victory.

RIVERSIDE NOSES OUT ROHM & HAAS IN LEAGUE GAME

Winning Streak of Chemical Mixers Ends With Defeat of One Point, 31 to 30

FIRST LOSS OF SEASON

Jersey Boys Clipped R. & H. Rally in Second Half

BURLINGTON, Feb. 29—The Rohm and Haas winning streak in the Bristol-Burlington League came to a halt last night on the Burlington High School floor as the Bristol team was beaten by the Riverside All-Stars, 31-30. The chemical mixers had won 20 straight games and had not been beaten since the opening game of the season.

The Jersey boys clipped a Rohm and Haas rally in the second half to cap the verdict. The chemical workers were trailing by seven points at half-time and slowly began to cut into the Riverside lead. But when it appeared that the Bristol team would pass them, Riverside tightened its defense and managed to have the one-point edge at the finish.

Both teams scored fourteen field goals but the Riverside boys dropped in three of their five foul tries while Rohm and Haas slit the cords twice in eight foul attempts. Dave Murphy and Rice, usually dependable shots from the gift line, missed three and two shots, respectively.

However, Murphy was high scorer for the losers with 11 points, the same number as scored by O'Brien who led the winners. It was the shooting of O'Brien and Kuzowski which gave Riverside its first half lead while Farione dropped in the winning points in the second half.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service
HARRISBURG, Feb. 29.—(INS)—The avowed insistence of State Republican leaders headed by Gov. Edward Martin that Pennsylvania's 70-member delegation must go to the National G. O. P. Convention June 26th unpledged to any candidate finds little support in some political circles at the State Capitol. They point out that an unpledged delegation is a fine thing theoretically, but has no

President Asks Everyone To Grow Victory Garden

IN HIS message to congress on the food program President Roosevelt said: "Much credit is due to the patriotic men and women who spent so much time and energy in planting the twenty million Victory Gardens in the United States and helped to meet the food requirements. It is estimated that about eight million tons of food were produced in 1943 in these Victory Gardens."

To his press conference, held prior to sending this message, the president said a campaign would be made to get everyone to grow food in his back yard in 1944 and expressed the hope that production would be double that of 1943.

More than half the fresh vegetables available to civilians of the United States in 1943 were grown in Victory gardens.

This fact is established by statistics prepared by U. S. department of agriculture economists. The total production of vegetables is estimated to be 18,775,000 tons, from the following sources:

Thus Victory gardens are credited with 7,940,000 tons, or 42 percent of the total production; and since supplies for lendlease and the armed forces are all taken from the commercial production, it is obvious that Victory gardens contributed more than half the supply available to the civilian population.

But if this half be considered on the basis of its nutritive value, to a people on a rationed diet in which the normal proportion of vitamin-rich protective foods has been substantially reduced, then the contribution of Victory Gardens to the civilian food supply grows in importance.

place in practical politics. . . . There is too much danger that the delegates, lacking pre-convention leadership, will bolt to whatever candidate seems to have the best chance of winning when the balloting begins. . . . They believe Governor Martin and State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor merely want to head off any State campaign for delegates for Wendell Willkie, the 1940 stand-bearer, in order to line up the delegation for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, or Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio.

The Pennsylvania State Education Association has released figures estimating the cost to the Army of training illiterate soldiers at approximately $600 each. . . . More than one-third of the 2,997,000 men rejected from service for various reasons are illiterate, the Association estimated.

The Pennsylvania Historical Commission has revealed that 64 refugee children from Europe have been temporarily placed with Pennsylvania families. . . . Thirty-seven states are cooperating with the U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children, the Commission explained. . . . Since 1940, when refugee children began streaming to America, Pennsylvania families have housed 94 youngsters and have contributed $75,000 to the Committee. . . . Neutral ships bring the children from Lisbon, Portugal, to Philadelphia from where they are sent to a national reception center near New York. . . . Before they leave for the center, however, the children are taken to Independence Hall and shown the Liberty Bell.

Gov. Edward Martin's new private conference room has just about every convenience for the comfort of Cabinet members except ash trays. . . . An unwritten "no smoking" rule is observed in deference to the Governor who suffers a slight discomfort from smoke since he was gassed in France 25 years ago.

The State Game Commission will meet at the State Capitol March 8 to draft a preliminary outline for a more comprehensive land management program. . . . The conference with representatives of sportsmen's organizations and game officials was prompted by large-scale additions to game lands already owned by the Commonwealth. . . . Ross Leffler, president, pointed out that the Commission is responsible for the management of more than 1,000,000 acres of forests used for wildlife refuges including "numerous cooperative farm game projects to assure public hunting grounds and refuges close to large centers of population."

American Red Cross Opens War Fund Drive Confident of Full Support

stage of the war at hand, the Red Cross must assume a greater burden than ever before, and at the same time must provide aid to servicemen being returned in ever increasing numbers.

Reviewing accomplishments, he asserted that Red Cross operations over the entire world during 1943 had dwarfed its activities during the first two years of war.

"Thousands of American men and women, he said, are now in Red Cross service with U. S. troops in 53 continental and insular areas.

It was estimated here that more than three million American Red Cross volunteers will participate in the house-to-house canvass starting today.

"Every American will be given the opportunity to contribute to this cause which is so close to the hearts of the people," Chairman Davis said.

"The Red Cross spirit springs from human desire to alleviate suffering and pain in war and in times of great disaster.

"In this war we have carried that spirit from our own shores to every part of the globe where American men and women, are serving the nation. The Red Cross is always at their side.

"Bringing that same spirit back from the battle fronts, the Red Cross has inaugurated a new arm of protection—aid to the disabled servicemen in the interim period following his discharge from service and until he begins to receive government benefits."

Citing the overseas achievements of the American Red Cross, Mr. Davis revealed that field directors, hospital, club and recreation workers are with American armed forces in virtually every command.

Both in Europe and in the Far East Red Cross workers have either gone with invasion forces into new combat areas, or have followed within a very limited period of time, he said.

On the home front, the Red Cross has broadened its service tremendously. Field directors are serving in every sizable military establishment and camp throughout the country, and recreation and social service workers are located in Army and Navy hospitals.

One of the most important war-time Red Cross functions has been the collection of human blood for plasma. Thirty-five blood donor stations, are now operating, and some five millions pints of the vital fluid have been collected thus far.

Other achievements of the Red Cross are the training of 100,000 Volunteer Nurse's Aides, who are now serving in both military and civilian hospitals, and the establishment of a smoothly functioning Home Service organization, which acts as a liaison agency between men and women in military service and their families at home.

Numerous other Red Cross home operations, such as Prisoner of War packaging centers, where millions of parcels for war prisoners are prepared for shipment overseas, are supported by citizen-participation in the Red Cross War Fund.

"So expansive is Red Cross service during this war," Chairman Davis said, "that practically every American civilian is in contact with at least one of its functions. To continue this gigantic work all Americans, we feel certain, will assume their share of the responsibility."

3 Brothers Meet In The South Pacific

The three, all members of the U. S. Navy, and sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mucklow, Durham Road, thus passed an enjoyable New Year's holiday. The Mucklow family is "all out" for the navy, a brother and sister also being in the service. They are: Ensign Dorothy Mucklow, a navy nurse, now at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.; and Coxswain William Mucklow, now somewhere in the Mediterranean area.

Of the trio participating in the joyous reunion, Gould arrived first at a South Pacific base. Paul was assigned there soon after; and on New Year's Day Joseph arrived on a ship taking supplies to the base. As is his custom he made inquiries concerning units located there, and was pleased to learn that his brothers were based there at the time. He lost no time in locating them. Joseph had not seen Gould since May 9th, and Paul had not seen either Joseph or Gould from the time he left his home here last June until he arrived in the South Pacific.

Realism...now and after the war

WE HEAR a great deal these days about post-war planning. Some of it seems sound and practical, and some of it is "crystal gazing."

While literally hundreds of public and private agencies are thinking of postwar planning, there are a few things that realistic individuals are sure of. They know that first and foremost the war has to be won and nothing should interfere with all-out efforts toward this end.

They know that economic tides ebb and flow; that the future, like the past, will experience good times and bad; that when bad times come, many people will face economic hardships.

They know that they, like everyone else, are growing older; that the life of any individual is uncertain; and that in accordance with the immutable laws of nature, heads of families will continue to pass on.

Knowing these things, some 30 million people insured by Metropolitan are providing definite measures of protection against these uncertainties of life through some 29 billion dollars of life insurance.

In addition to providing an anchor to windward for the individuals involved and for their families, the thrift of these policyholders is bound to be of a stabilizing character during the postwar period.

This is Postwar Realism of the highest order.
